when: June 7-13, 2015

where: The beautiful, historic Boulder Hot Springs Spa and Retreat Center in Boulder, Montana, USA. (The healing setting and the spa will most certainly enhance our writing experience.)

cost: The fee is $750 (U.S.) plus room, meals and travel.

details: Limited to 15 participants, the retreat includes individualized time in group, writing time, and as Brenda Ueland says, "The imagination needs moodling, long, inefficient, happy idling, dawdling and puttering."

We strongly suggest that you come alone for this week and take the time you need for yourself and your writing. If spouses, friends, or family want to join you to explore and experience this wonderful place and the beauty of Montana, we suggest that they join you before or after your writing week so your entire focus can be on you, your process of writing and your relationship with your writing.

Accommodations: One person in a regular room is $60 per night. Upgrade to B&B room at $20 per night additional. Meals: $50 per day; $12 breakfast, $17 lunch, $21 dinner. To reserve room and board, please contact Boulder Hot Springs at 406-225-4339 or email reservations-info@boulderhotsprings.com. Address: P.O. Box 930, Boulder Montana 59632.

Anne Wilson Schaefer, Ph.D. is an internationally known author, lecturer and teacher. She has written 14 published books and has over six million books in print. She, herself, went from being a "non-writer" as pronounced by her university freshman English professor to becoming a prolific world-renowned writer.

She is convinced that if one is comfortable with their own process of writing, the writing will come. The mechanics are easy and mechanics do not a writer make. They only oil the wheels—or not.

She has gone from the painfulness of writing to the need to write to the joy of writing.

Anne has done writer's workshops in Hawaii, the mainland U.S., Europe and Australia. Not only have they been experienced with enthusiasm by all involved, all of the initial "non-writers" have emerged knowing they are writers with some becoming award-winning and published authors.

WRITER'S RETREAT

Join us at Boulder Hot Springs for a wonderful opportunity to write in a supportive and beautiful atmosphere.

This retreat focuses on the process of writing for each individual, supporting and encouraging the creative writing process in each person.

It is not a workshop on techniques, rather it is a retreat which encourages writers to get in touch with their own writing process and style therefore becoming the writers that they are.

Participants will write every day with free time for "moodlin' and doodlin'" as Brenda Ueland puts it. The process of making time and space for the creative process will be emphasized.

"I believe that if you want to be a writer, you are. The issue is not just learning some tools and techniques (though useful), the real issue is the process of discovering the writer you are and learning to write out of that person."

The group is limited to 15 people so that individual support and feedback can be given to share and process responses.

Anne will bring to the group her experience of writing and secrets about what has been helpful to her in publishing 14 books that have achieved international success.
